

About our 'Club Claim'

The driving force for The Lake George Gem & Mineral Club (LGGMC) to obtain a Club Mining Claim was so we could have 'our own space' to help expand on the notions that our club is based upon. This included: getting out in Nature, networking with other Rock Hounds with similar interests, and teaching new members, Learning more about the Earth Sciences, having Fun like Digging, or finding cool Specimens that we could clean-up & display or even pieces that we could work on in a Lapidary WorkShop. We wanted a place that was easy-access (gentle sloping terrain), not too far to walk to, and that had some goodies! We wished for it to be a great location for aging members, as well as for families with small children, and a spot that new members (or those with a new interest to dig) could pack a picnic & get Outdoors! With the help of The Denver Gem & Mineral Guild (DGMG), we found a great Spot! The two clubs joined forces to locate, stake out, and file two 'Lode' Club Claims. The two clubs also formed an agreement to Allow members of 'either' Club permission to utilize 'either' Claim! The club claims are The Patience Lode & The Piety Lode.

This location is a very popular spot. It is at a trailhead into the National Forest. There are many many folks using the area for a wide variety of activities. (Keep in mind that some, may Not prefer our Hobby). If they are interested, encourage membership.

Collectables

Amazonite, microcline, clear & smoky quartz crystals, green & purple fluorite, topaz. There are many historical digs in the area. 'Float' is abundant. It is not uncommon to discover nice finds on spoil piles. It has been reported that a 4 pound topaz was found in the area. In the private collection of Brian Lees (The Collector's Edge) is a pristine Twinned Amazonite specimen discovered in the general region.
